WELCOME

A warm welcome back to the Airline & Aerospace MRO & Flight Operations IT Conference - APAC 2026. This year's conference will address challenges facing aviation every year as well as showcasing technologies with which aviation can face an unpredictable future and global instability.

This year, once more, aircraft operations are challenged with global instability, conflict and tensions. But the drive to net zero continues at pace and the need to manage ever-evolving regulation is unchanged. Plus, the rise of new technologies such as AI is generating exciting new opportunities and efficiencies accessible for everyone. Many of today's challenges could not be addressed without digital solutions transforming processes; processes like managing fuel when conflict is forcing ever higher fuel costs that can best be managed with digital solutions.

Sustainability and future growth in aviation today rely on IT solutions at the heart of modern airline and aviation processes. Digitization offers clear benefits; agility, flexibility and capability to address whatever the future holds: the challenge is unlocking those benefits. Operating without IT would be unthinkable for an airline today, but finding the right IT solution for your business model and processes is the key to success.

The Exhibition Hall at this 2-day conference, is where airlines, operators and MROs can enjoy unrivalled access to discuss their own challenges and priorities with a range of leading vendors, and to see demos of the latest digital solutions. There will also be the full conference agenda of case studies from airlines, operators and MROs, sharing their own digital journeys to implementing new and modern IT solutions, as well as what they have gained and learned.

We look forward to seeing you in Bangkok in October.
